

Biographical Information – Annie Rahman, M.S.W.

Anna Rahman, M.S.W., is a consultant to the Center for Quality Aging and a doctoral associate in Gerontology at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Her current research, and the topic of her recent publications, relates to identifying and evaluating effective methods for translating nursing home research into practice. She recently served as program manager for CQA's distance learning project on improving incontinence management in nursing homes. She also is the author of this Web site's online training modules.